

Example Question 5s

Your school or college is asking students to contribute some creative writing for its website.

- Write a description based on this picture.
- Write a story beginning with the sentence: "Well this was never going to end well."

A national teen magazine is running a creative writing competition.

- Write a description based on this picture.
- Write the beginning of a story in which your main character is bullied for being different.

You are going to enter a creative writing competition for a local newspaper.

- Write a description based on this picture.
- Write a story about a young person feeling threatened.

Your school or college is asking students to contribute some creative writing for its website.

- Write a story suggested by this picture.
- Describe a place that means something to you.

A national teen magazine is running a creative writing competition.

- Write a description based on this picture.
- Write a story beginning with the sentence: "That's when it all fell apart."

Your school or college is asking students to contribute some creative writing for its website.

- Write a description based on this picture.
- Write a story about a journey gone wrong.

You are going to enter a creative writing competition for a local newspaper.

- Write a description based on this picture.
- Write beginning of a story about the loss of hope.

Your school or college is asking students to contribute some creative writing for its website.

- Write a description based on this picture.
- Write a short story about betrayal.